

the dictator of the house

Te Ata, Indian Princess Guest At Concord Haven

Hind
Fir

Mrs. Lou Williams, daughter-in-law of Dr. and Mrs. J. Leon Williams and wife of Dr. Percy Norman Williams of Tuscan Arizona, has been spending a few days at Concord Haven.

Hi
first
Skov
bein
secu

John R. Sheppard, head of the Dentists' Supply Co. of New York City, is another recent visitor.

has ors
T

Princess Te Ata, a highly educated Indian, daughter of Lucksi, head of the Last Indian Council of the Chickasaw Nation, has also been staying at Concord Haven. Te Ata is well known throughout the United States and England for her vivid, picturesque and truthful portrayals and descriptions of Indian life and character. The following comments by an English and an American paper give a good idea of the character of her entertainment. From the Stratford-on-Avon Herald, England:—"Te Ata, a Chickasaw Indian, has collected some singularly beautiful examples of Indian folk-lore, and by music, dance and song, now brings into our midst the spirit of the prairie, which is her ancestral home."

2nd
ter
of anc
da
of
—
in st
—